

"Hollywood Dreams" -Episode 6

Verse 1

Back from Germany, the crowds still cheered,
The biggest star had reappeared.
A brand-new voice, a brand-new start,
But music never left his heart.

Chorus

Hollywood dreams beneath the sun,
A thousand cameras, always on.
The world could see the shining star,
But Elvis dreamed of more than that afar.

Verse 2

Blue Hawaii on the silver screen,
The brightest lights he'd ever seen.
Every movie made the fans applaud,
But something deeper touched his soul.

Chorus

Hollywood dreams beneath the sun,
A thousand cameras, always on.
The world could see the shining star,
But Elvis dreamed of more than that afar.

Verse 3

The years rolled by in studio lights,
Endless days and endless nights.
Behind the smile a feeling grew,
A longing for something fresh and new.

Bridge

The king was waiting for his time,
To leave the scripts and sing his lines.
The music called him from within,
A brand-new chapter would begin.

Final Chorus

Hollywood dreams beneath the sun,
A thousand cameras, always on.
The world could see the shining star,
But Elvis dreamed of who he really was.

Outro

The cameras faded one by one,
Another journey had begun.
The king would soon reclaim his crown,
And turn the whole world upside down.
